people with rheumatoid arthritis often develop eye conditions, including keratoconjunctivitis sicca, or dry eye, which causes redness, burning, itching, reduced tearing, and sensitivity to light.